INFORMATION TO VICTIMS OF DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

Be Prepared Make a Safety Plan:

1. Leave your home before you are abused or the violence gets worse, if you feel you are in danger. You may do that without losing the right to return home. If you leave for safety reasons, you cannot be accused of desertion.
2. Know the telephone number of your police department.
3. Try not to leave without your children.
4. Set aside an "emergency" bag for yourself and your children which includes changes of clothing, important papers; such as, birth certificates, social security cards, public assistance cards, etc.
5. Put aside money for this emergency as well as checks, bank books, bank cards, and credit cards to joint accounts. You are entitled to take monies from all jointly held bank accounts.
6. Make an extra set of keys to the house and car and keep them hidden.
7. Do not keep your abuse a secret. Confide in family members or friends and ask for their help.
8. Contact your local domestic violence program for emotional support and information on 24-hour assistance and temporary safe shelter.

INTRODUCTION

The Indiana Coalition Against Domestic Violence (ICADV) is a not-for-profit corporation that is committed to the elimination of domestic violence through education, training, public awareness, system advocacy, and technical assistance to domestic violence programs.

The residential and non-residential programs that are outlined in the directory primarily provide services to female victims of domestic violence and their children. All programs provide services either on-site or via referral to male victims of domestic violence, victims of rape, homeless persons, and batterers. The services offered by residential and most non-residential programs are free of charge. Each program can be contacted to find out what services it provides.

There are many resources available to crime victims and their families throughout the state of Indiana.

FURTHER INFORMATION

This book is set up in a manner that makes it very easy for you to use. The residential programs are listed by the region of the state in which they are located. Within that section they are listed alphabetically by their city.

Primary service, information and referrals are available 24 hours a day. In addition, each program will either accept collect calls or they will have a toll-free number. Residential services to victims and their children are free of charge.

STATEWIDE TOLL-FREE NUMBER 1-800-332-7385

Non-residential programs and transitional housing programs are listed alphabetically by their city. They provide information, referrals, educational services, and support groups in addition to many functions that are offered on a local level only. Transitional housing programs provide longer term shelter and support services. Please contact your local program for information about fees and specific programs.

There are several ICADV certified batterers' intervention programs throughout the state. If you have any questions or need referrals, a list of phone numbers will be provided by calling 1-800-332-7385.

For additional information about ICADV or about domestic violence, visit our website at www.violenceresource.org.
